WHO ARE WE?

KWY is a not-for-profit Aboriginal organisation delivering a range of specialist services across South Australia.

KWY aims to:

- Create a place for change
- Keep women and children safe
- Empower and strengthen families and community
- Draw on culture to promote healing and build resilience
- Utilise and embed kinship systems of care and Aboriginal child rearing practices
- Provide an Aboriginal trauma-informed approach.

WHAT WE OFFER...

The Taikurtirna Tirra Apinthi Program is a culturally responsive, trauma-informed, family focused approach to reduce the number of Aboriginal children entering out-of-home care.

Taikurtirna Tirra Apanthi Program is focused on achieving the safety, wellbeing, and empowerment of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people

The Taikurtirna Tirra Apanthi Program is based on the understanding that it is in the child's best interest to remain in the care of their family if it is a safe option.

HOW WE WORK...

Taikurtirna Tirra Apinthi work closely with family members to keep children safe and protected in the family and prevent removal.

Each family member receive individualised support from a men's, women's, or children's practitioner.

We meet family members where they feel safest, either at home, a park, or elsewhere.

Assessments, safety plan coordination, therapeutic and practical support are conducted in a culturally safe and traumainformed manner.
