

Women's Safety Contact Program

About the program...

- KWY's Women's Safety Contact Program is an outreach service aimed at ensuring the safety and wellbeing of women and children. It works to address concerns related to domestic and family violence, increase awareness of potential risks, and provide assistance in managing any identified risks, empowering individuals to feel secure.
- This service is strictly confidential and at no time is information about you shared with your current or former partner.

Eligibility

- The Women's Safety Contact Program is available to Aboriginal women and mothers of Aboriginal children who have fled a Family Domestic Violence (FDV) relationship and/or do not wish to continue a FDV relationship.

Next Steps

- If Women's Safety Contact Program sounds suitable for you or someone you know, give us a call on 08 8377 7822 or complete the referral form available at www.kwy.org.au
